A person connected with the stable tells me that the Prince can beat Raceland. Maybe he can, but it must be proven to the thorough satisfaction of every horseowner on the ground before they will believe it. And yet I should hate to think that the time had misled me, Compare the time in the Raceland-Firenzi race with the other performances on the same day. Look at Diablo's head deteat over the same

On paper, then, if Eric brought Diablo to a drive in the Withers at 118 pounds and 121 pounds respectively, certainly Zephyrus had a chance to beat Diablo to-day. And so the betters thought, for it was 7 to 5 and take your pick between them.

The truth is often unpleasant but it is better to face it than to dodge it. There is a great deal of truth in these observations by the Post: "Morrill has seen his best days as a player, and it is simply a sentimental piece of foolishness to attempt to bolster up his weak points and endeavor to force the people to believe that under his tutelage the team will even improve a single lota. shortstop and captain. He handled the team in a manner that at once stamped him as one of the few first-class baseball strategists. For reasons best known to themselves, Messes, Reach and Rogers never took the same stock in Irwin that Harry Wright and the general public did, and but for the latter Irwin would have worn other colors two years ago. This season Irwin started in badly, being in poor shape physically, and unfortunate in the character of his errors. His wild throw in the last Boston game here lost the Phililes the game, and he was laid off and would probably have been released then but for the newspaper clamor. He stayed on the beach until Delehanty was injured, and then resumed his place at short. He was shaping up rapidly, and in the Boston games he played splendid ball. He will doubtless play as well as ever he did from now out, and his best is as good as anybody else's. It must be a good ballplayer, Indeed, who can fill his place. Mr. Reach signed Ward and Mr. Reach sold Irwin. Mr. Reach's reputation as a judge of baseball timber is at stake, and for his own sake and that of the club it is to be hoped that it will prove more correct in this and that of the club it is to be hoped that it will prove more correct in this instance than it has heretofore.
